Summary

I am currently a software developer intern at Microsoft SA and Nebula. The technical, conceptual and leadership skills I have acquired in the last few years make me a good fit in any innovation driven team. My experience in sales has equipped me with the ability to leverage my knowledge of product and services and directly translate it into sales. I have a passion for solving problems and adding value; I have always sought to push my limits in this regard to ensure the work I produce matters to its users.
